THE BOARD OF PHARMACY EXAMINING APPLICANTS

The Indian Territory Board of Pharmacy on Tuesday morning met at Ada in quarterly session to examine applicants for registration as pharmacists. This board was established about two year ago by act of Congress and convenes quarterly in some accessible town in the territory. It will meet in July at Muskogee.

The board is holding its session in the U. S. court room, which was secured through the courteous efforts of the local pharmacists, Messrs. Gwinn and Brents.

There are about twenty-five applicants, which will necessitate the board's remaining here, in all likelihood, two days. The members of the board are:

F. C. Savage of Hartshorn, President.

H. D. Kniseley of Checotah, Secretary.

H. C. Cobb of Muskogee.

H. M. Mitchell of Vinita.

W. O. Strother of Nowata.

CANADIAN SOUTHERN CO. SURVEYING IN TEXAS

Mr. W. B. Jones handed us the clipping printed below, which is from his old home paper, The Sulphur Springs (Texas) Echo. The railroad survey mentioned therein which is perplexing the Texans is undoubtedly part of the big projected Canadian Southern system, for the latter is planned to include both Wills Point and Palestine.

This will be of some interest to Ada people, since it is further evidence that the Canadian Company means business.

"The corps of railroad surveyors working from Palestine north have surveyed a route near Athens, and have located the line as far north as Wills Point, 300 yards east of the Texas & Pacific depot. The survey outfit is first class in every respect, and a careful survey as far north as Wills Point has been made. The survey has been under way two or three weeks, but no intimation has been given out concerning the owners of the proposed railroad or its objective point north."

Died.

Chas. Meirs of Tyrola died Sunday night of pneumonia. C. C. Hargis received a message requesting that he go to Tyrola to conduct the ceremonies. The interment will take place at the Bethel school house this afternoon under the auspices of the Masonic Lodge.

ROYAL ARCH MASONS ARE HERE A HUNDRED STRONG

Ada, on this day, April 17th is host to the Grand Chapter of Royal Arch Masons of Oklahoma and Indian Territory. There are in attendance something like one hundred distinguished Masons, prominent citizens withal, of the two territories. The occasion is the 17th annual convocation of that body, which lasts through today and night.

These delegates come from the forty five chapters contained in the twin-territory jurisdiction.

The delegates assembled in the Masonic hall this morning and were formally welcomed to the city in an appropriate address by Mayor Wood, which was responded to most gracefully by E. H. Doyle of South McAlester.

In his annual address to the Grand Chapter, the Grand High Priest, Eugene Hamilton of Chickasha, made the following reference to Ada:

"Ada is our meeting place—the very conception of the new age, the exemplification of the ideal for which that grand old woman, now dead, Susan B. Anthony, labored so long and zealously—Ada, not named after some mere man, or some Indian dead and gone, but named after the new girl still living and breathing faith, affection, hope and encouragement."

Ada and Violet and Maude and Alma and Velma and Hope and Marry-etta—names of our own girls, and also of the vigorous, lively, progressive towns of our Territory, spring into existence in the last year or two."

During the forenoon session the chapter resolved to donate the sum of $1,000 to the Masonic Oklahoma Home for widows and orphans.

On tomorrow will occur the meeting of the Grand Council of Royal and Select Masters and Wednesday that of the Grand Commandery of Knights Templar of Indian Territory. Many other Masons will arrive each day and many of those now present will remain throughout the three days.

The official roster of the Grand Chapter, now in session, is as follows:

M. E. Eugene Hamilton, Chickasha, Grand High Priest; R. E. Wm. Hesse, South McAlester, Deputy High Priest; R. E. D. M. Hailey, South McAlester, Grand King; R. E. Robt Morrison, Atoka, Grand Scribe; R. E. H. L. Jarboe, Jr., Chickasha, treasurer; M. E. J. S. Murrow, Atoka, secretary; M. E. D. D. Leach, Oklahoma City, lecturer; R. E. I. H. G. Hulme, Weatherford, O. T., G. C. of H.; R. E. J. S. Murrow, Grand Chaplain; Excellent Chas. Day, Grand Marshal; Ransom Stephens, G. P. S.; M. A. Nelson, G. R. A. C.; Chris. Springer, G. M. 3d Vail; J. H. Angelly, G. M. 2nd Vail; H. J. Ricker, 1st Vail; Stephen Becker, Grand Sentinel.

NEW CITY COUNCIL HOLDS ITS FIRST REGULAR SESSION

The new city council met Monday night in its first regular session, Mayor Wood and all aldermen being present.

The matter of moving city headquarters to another location was taken up and the mayor was authorized to close a deal for the Kyser building on 12th street, next to Pike's meat market. It will cost $12.50 per month and for a city hall will be superior to the present quarters in several respects. The Kyser building has two stories, giving ample room, is cooler and in a more healthy locality. Later the calaboose will be removed to a closer and more convenient point.

An ordinance was passed creating the office of city scavenger and defining its duties. Since Ada has become a city of the 2nd class instead of a town the office is no longer elective, but is now filled by appointment by the council. This change required the passage of the new ordinance.

There was passed an ordinance which vacates a portion of 6th street for the use of the Frisco railroad in constructing and maintaining a switch to the compress.

A motion was passed authorizing the mayor and recorder formally to accept the proposition of the Frisco relative to constructing the crossing on west Main street, which proposition has been heretofore published in the News.

The selection of a night watch came up and proved to be quite a spirited contest. The council took nine ballots before making a choice. There were ten candidates in all voted for, but on the ninth ballot W. C. Bailey received the requisite five votes and was elected.

The council passed a motion granting the city recorder, J. I. Warren, a leave of absence to recuperate his health.

Adjournment was had until Tuesday night, when official bonds will be taken up for approval, a scavenger will be selected and other matters attended to.

The following standing committees were appointed at the regular session of the city council on April 16, 1906, by Mayor Wood:

Committee on finance, purchase, schools and printing: M. D. Timberlake, B. A. Mason, J. E. Bills.

Committee on water and water works and lights: A. R. Sugg, W. H. Nettles, J. E. Bills, B. A. Mason.

Committee on streets, sidewalks and sanitary: M. D. Timberlake, C. O. Barton, A. J. McFarland, W. C. Lee.

Committee on ordinances: B. C. King, C. O. Barton, W. C. Lee.

Committee on cemetery: W. H. Nettles, A. J. McFarland, A. R. Sugg.

OVERDRAFTS

It is becoming well known by business men that overdrafts, whether large or small, are not approved by the controller of the currency. The large central banks allow overdrafts only in a very small way, and this, it matters not how small, is not approved by the powers that be. This unbusinesslike habit of overdrafts grew out of advancing on moving products, such as cotton, grain and fat stock on the move. The overdraft system is wrong and the man whose account is always overdrawn is the man who spends more money than he makes and will finally have no bank account.

There are a great many people who either can't or don't care to read. But however unlettered, however young or old people may be they all love to look at pictures. This fact is taken advantage of in all modern literature and advertising. In up-to-date advertising pictures are used copiously wherever practicable.

Now Ada possesses a multitude of charms and opportunities, but the trouble is we have not proclaimed them to the outside world. Ada has been entirely too modest; she has neglected to blow her horn, and as a result some of her bolder sister towns have been the recipients of attentions properly belonging to her. Yes, undeniably what Ada needs now is some vigorous, tactful, tasteful advertising. The News has long since realized this and has persistently agitated the enterprise. As a good, strong starter the News management has arranged to get out an elegant Souvenir Album Edition, which will be a superb bird's eye view of Ada, her people, her business, her opportunities. It will be a thorough and tasteful epitome of the life of Ada and surrounding country. The album is planned with an eye to the invaluable advantages of copious pictures as above indicated.

Not only will this book be excellent advertising literature, but it will be such an elegant souvenir as all our citizens will prize, will wish to preserve copies in their libraries and send others abroad to relatives and friends.

The cost to citizens patronizing this project has been minimized and is easily within the reach of all. Let all lend their patronage and encouragement and have a good word to say for the undertaking.

AS successor to the Ravia Tribune, T. D. Jones has started up The Chickasaw News at the town of McGee. It starts out with a good, strong, town-building flavor and is the sort of a paper the citizens of McGee should lend every support.

Ordinance No. 106.

An ordinance creating the office of scavenger for the City of Ada, Indian Territory, and defining his duties.

Section 1. Be it ordained by the city council of the City of Ada, that the office of Scavenger is hereby created who shall be elected by the city council on the first regular meeting after the general election in each year, and every year thereafter, who shall hold his office for a term of one year, or until his successor is elected and qualified.

Sec. 2. That the City Scavenger may be removed at any time by a majority vote of the city council.

Sec. 3. That it shall be the duty of the City Scavenger to remove from the city limits of the city all garbage and carcasses of dead animals and fowls and other refuse dangerous to the public health that may accumulate upon any public or private premises within said city.

Sec. 4. That it shall be the duty of any owner or occupant of any hotel, restaurant, boarding house, butcher shop or other public place where refuse or filth are liable to accumulate, to deposit all filth, slop, refuse, offal, refuse vegetable, or animal matter, that may accumulate upon or by product of such premises, in metallic barrels with metallic covers and side handles, commonly known as garbage barrels, and shall cause the same to be removed to such place as may be provided or designated by the city council as often as every Monday and Thursday, and of tenor when required to do so by the board of health.

Sec. 5. That the city scavenger shall dump all garbage, and offal and refuse of every character and description at some place beyond the city limits, to be designated by the city council.

Sec. 6. That it shall be unlawful for the city scavenger or any other person to convey, remove or carry any will or slop, or the contents of any cess pool, or privy vault or any decomposed vegetable or animal matter of whatever nature, or carry along or over any street, avenue or alley or other public ground except between the hours of 10 o'clock p. m. and five o'clock a. m. Provided that nothing in this section herein contained shall be construed to regulate the carrying of dead animals within the city limits to be used for food.

Sec. 7. That it shall be the duty of all persons to remove or cause to be removed, by the city scavenger, the carcasses of all dead animals or fowls, to the city dumping ground, owned by them or found upon their premises, within twenty-four hours from the death of such animal or fowl.

Sec. 8. That the contents of all privies shall be removed by the scavenger in an odorless, air tight tank, and said tank shall be first examined and inspected by the board of public health before being used by the scavenger, and if said tank shall be approved by the board of health, the said board shall issue a certificate of approval, and thereupon the city

Sec. 9. That the scavenger shall clean all private privies as often as once each month, and oftener when requested by the occupant of the premises, where a privy is located, or when directed by the board of health; and all privies used in connection with hotels, restaurants and public buildings, or business buildings, shall be cleaned at least once in each week. It shall be unlawful for any person or persons to allow his privy to be used and not cleaned as herein provided.

Sec. 10. It shall be unlawful for any person to sweep, throw or burn trash, waste paper or refuse upon any street or alley of this city, or any public lot therein, except the lot nearest his business house and then the same shall be burned in wire cages.

Sec. 11. It shall be unlawful for any person to allow any filth or refuse matter to accumulate upon the premises occupied by him, or under his control.

Sec. 12. It shall be required of the city scavenger to furnish at his own expense, lime, to be used and deposited by him in quantities of one quart in all private privies and in quantities of one half gallon in all privies of hotels, restaurants, public or business buildings, as is provided in Sec. 9, at the time the same is cleaned. It shall be the further duty of the said scavenger to clean all alleys in the city of Ada, as often as ordered by the mayor or city council.

Sec. 13. That in no event shall the city be liable for fees for removing any article herein mentioned, or performing any duty herein mentioned by the scavenger, except cleaning of privies at public school houses which shall be paid by the school board.

Sec. 14. That in the event any person shall refuse or fail to pay the fees for the cleaning of the privies as provided herein, or shall refuse to pay the fees for removing any article or substance which it is made unlawful to remain in said city and is made the duty of the scavenger to remove by this ordinance, he shall be deemed to have refused to clean or remove the same, and upon complaint before the mayor, and upon trial he shall be found guilty of violating this ordinance, it shall be the duty of the mayor to tax as cost in said case all fee that may be due the city scavenger.

Sec. 15. Any person who shall be aggrieved by paying any scavenger fee may complain to the city council, and upon hearing his complaint they shall be of the opinion that the same is unjust, the scavenger shall refund the same to the party making the complaint.

Sec. 16. Any person or persons who shall violate any provision of this ordinance shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction before the mayor shall be fined in any sum not more than twenty-five dollars nor less than one dollar.

Sec. 17. The city scavenger shall receive for his services the following fees:

Cow or horse	$1.00
Yearling colt, hog or dog	.50
Fowls, cats or rats	.05
Privies	.25
Slop or refuse per barrel	.25
Waste paper and other dry refuse per barrel	.10

That this ordinance take effect from and after its passage and publication.

Passed this 16th day of April, A. D., 1906.

TALES OF ADVENTURE

A REVOLUTIONARY HEROINE.

NANCY HART, the famous Georgia character of Revolutionary days, is by no means mythical, but was a very real personage. Notwithstanding her gigantic frame, red hair, freckles and crossed eyes, her memory is kept greener among the people of her native State than that of many a more prepossessing heroine.

She was what is familiarly known as a Georgia "Cracker," a poor, though intelligent white, who lived among the sand hills or in the isolated districts of the State.

Her capture of the ten Tories while they were devouring the viands she had been compelled to prepare for them is recognized as an historical fact.

During Andrew Jackson's Presidency representatives from Georgia, desiring to bring that State to the notice of the President, decided to present a painting for one of the niches in the rotunda of the United States Capitol building. At length it was completed—a portrait of Nancy Hart, bareheaded, barefooted, her skirts to her knees, crossing a shallow stream driving ten Tories before her at point of one of their own guns. The President, who was redheaded and came of hardy pioneer stock himself, is said to have been very much pleased with the picture, and it is to be hoped that Georgia profited by the diplomacy of her representatives.

The idea that Nancy Hart followed her husband to Florida and died there is erroneous. After the fierce disturbances of the Revolution had gone down as history she buckled up her yoke of oxen and with her children and grandchildren emigrated to South Carolina.

At one of the stops on the route her son-in-law became engaged in a drunken brawl and was taken in custody by an officer. Ever quick to meet an emergency, Nancy went to the rescue. Bestowing a few pugilistic bumps on the detainer of her son-in-law, she seized the latter and lifted him bodily into the bed of the wagon and drove out of town.

Nancy Hart located near Edgfield, a small town not far from the Georgia line. Her fame preceded her there, and she was welcomed and respected by her neighbors. My grandfather's grandfather lived in Edgfield and was one of the early Baptist preachers. The Scotch-Irish were almost universally Presbyterian, but once agitated there was soon a large sprinkling of Baptists and Methodists throughout the South. The ministers were for the most part itinerant, and revivals that rivalled Moody's and Jones' in enthusiasm were held under huge open tabernacles, and men rode on horseback a hundred miles to be in attendance.

Tradition says that Nancy Hart was converted at one of these meetings. It would be reasonable to suppose that time and hardships would have touched the red hair with gray and curbed the old dauntless spirit; but she was as strenuous in religion as in politics. There are mystical stories in my mind of a gaunt old woman embracing my dignified ancestor and disarranging his stock and dragging slobber sinners by their queues and coat tails to the penance seat, but these are traditions repeated from generation to generation, and I would not vouch for their authenticity.

However, I have always understood that Nancy Hart lived to a good old age, died and was buried in the old Edgfield district, now Edgfield County, S. C.—Richmond News-Leader.

WATERSPOUT HITS THIS BARK.

The Nova Scotian bark Robert S. Bessard, in from Charleston in tow of the tug Edward Luckenbach, had the distinction of exploding a waterspout on Christmas morning while she was off Bermuda, bound from Montevideo for this port. The negro cook was the only one who got a good view of the spout, just after it was born, apparently in a black squall to port. He was carrying aft some plum duff for the cabin table when he saw the swirling column of water impending. He did not care about going up even a spout from a squall that matched his complexion.

Before he could estimate the spout's dimensions he found himself all mixed up with plum duff and dishes on the port side of the deckhouse. The bark was hove down to starboard almost on her beam ends.

The skipper had observed the spout for a little time. He said it had more beam than several hogheads. It burst aboard with the roar of an avalanche, a Niagara or any other good, stout elemental roisterer. The ship's black cat, which had been following the cook, was corkscrewed up several feet into the spout before it gave way. She came down unburnt, but mighty wet and scared, and scooted across the ship like a charcoal streak to the cabin.

While the crew on watch were clinging to things the bark began to shed her top-hammer. All yards and sail on the main-mast above the mainmast went by the board. Stays snapped and canvas, torn by the force of the blast and punctured by yards that crashed to the deck, was sent flying to leeward. Relieved of some of her weight aloft the bark righted a bit. But as she had lost all sail she had no steerage way and fell off into the jaws of a heavy sea. An effort to relieve her by cutting away the landyards of the main rigging failed. The mainmast held.

Within an hour after the spout had hit the bark the alert skipper and his men had patched up some of her canvas, rescued from the wreckage hanging over the side. They bent on a foresail, two jibs and two other fore and aft sail, and got the bark on her course again, the wind continuing favorable. The chafing of the broken spars alongside had opened the bark's seams, and all hands had to pump two hours every day to relieve her until she arrived off Charleston, on January 10, sailing 500 miles under jury rig. She was towed into Charleston by the tug Protector. She is here for repairs.—New York Sun.

SHE SCREAMED, BUT HELD ON.

It is such an everyday occurrence here for anglers to catch in a few hours as many as they can tote (pack) that the Herald seldom records their success. But just to show that our tourists are having great piscatorial sport, we give the following report of successes achieved the past week: On Monday Judge Joseph Chamberlain, of Cincinnati, O., made the first catch of the season of Spanish mackerel. These fine fish have scarcely ever come here this early before. Mr. Harry B. Warden, of Boston, landed with hook and line, sixty-five pounds of speckled trout; Major R. B. Allison caught eighty pounds, and Mr. Sid Bedford, of Midway, Ky., took in 100 pounds of the same fish, all at "one sitting," so to speak. These gentlemen have been regular winter visitors to Punta Gorda, for years, and our climate and attractions are a source of continual delight to them. That is why they continue to come year after year, and they always receive a cordial welcome. Mrs. Charley Bromley, of Cleveland, O., had an exciting piscatorial experience Tuesday morning. She was out in a boat with a party fishing at the old wreck in the bay in front of the town, when she hooked a big shark. She screamed for the men to help her, but the unfeeling things only laughed and told her to hold on, which, of course, she was trying her best to do, though it seemed as if the shark would drag her out of the boat, in spite of all her efforts. One kind gentleman, though, advised her how to manage the beast, and finally, after a prolonged struggle, she succeeded in landing him. It was a pretty big fish—six feet eight inches long, and weighed 190 pounds. But she confesses that she had a great scare, and she has not yet forgiven the men for laughing at her.—Punta Gorda (Fla.) Herald.

WILDCAT JUMPS INTO CAR.

James P. Murphy is a flagman on the Southern Railway. The engine drawing Murphy's train broke down near Linden, Va., a small station near the top of the Blue Ridge Mountain, and the flagman went back to protect the rear end of the train. He carried the regulation red light to display for the guidance of all oncoming trains and this light attracted the attention of a wildcat. As the animal was about to spring at him Murphy drew his revolver and fired as the animal leaped in the air. Murphy then started on a run for his train, followed by the cat, which had evidently been wounded.

The animal, ferocious because of its wound, sprang on the steps of the rear coach as Murphy disappeared inside, and actually entered the car through the door, which Murphy in his haste had failed to close. Immediately there was consternation among the passengers. Several women fainted outright, and the men were too paralyzed by fright to do anything to save the situation.

The cat crouched on the floor of the car, lashing its tail, and evidently making up its mind which one of the passengers to select for attack. In the meantime Murphy had gone through the car, and descending to the ground, hurried around to the other end, thus coming in behind the cat, which was watching the movements of the passengers.

Standing in the doorway Murphy fired two shots at the beast, the second of which penetrated the animal's brain, killing him instantly. It is a magnificent specimen, and Murphy will have it mounted by a Washington taxidermist. A collection was taken up for his benefit by the passengers on the train.—New York World.

A PIONEER INCIDENT.

In the early days of the Western Reserve, when wolves were more numerous than settlements, a man by the name of Guild, living not a thousand miles from Geauga County, had occasion to go to mill, some four miles distant—the only road being a trail through the woods—and not being the fortunate owner of a horse, had to pack his own grist. Returning late in the afternoon he had got within about half a mile of home when, on happening to look back, he saw two wolves, some twenty rods away, following his track. Off went the grist and up a tree he started, calling for help until he made the woods ring. His father and brother, who were working near the house, hearing the cry, each taking a gun hastened to the rescue. As they came up a little rise of ground near the source of all this noise, the sight that met their eyes was one not soon to be forgotten. There the fellow was bareheaded, with arms and legs tight clasped around a tree, sitting flat on the ground and the wolves squatted on their haunches some ten rods away evidently enjoying the sport.—Tamarack, in Forest and Stream.

HER POOR BOY.
"Why are you weeping, Mrs. Flummery?"
"My poor boy!" she sobbed.
"What has happened? Don't—don't tell me that Le is dead!"
"No. He has just started away to college. Think what they'll be doing to him by this time next week."—Chicago Record-Herald.

MAKING SURE.
"Look here, young man, will you answer a civil question?"
"Cert."
"Are you office boy of this life insurance company?"
"Dat's what."
"All right. Take this card to the actuary and take it quick. I didn't know but what you might be the eighth vice-president."

DISAPPOINTED.
"Don't you know," said the young man who thinks he has a musical talent, "I sprained my throat the other day playing the cornet."
"Yes," replied his landlady, "and the neighbors sent their sympathy until they heard the truth."
"What truth?"
"They thought you had sprained the cornet."—Chicago News.

CHOICE OF EVILS.
Jack—"So you are engaged to Miss Grotto, I understand."
Tom—"You have said it."
Jack—"Well, I hardly know whether to congratulate you or not. She is very exacting, I hear, and if you marry her you will have to give up smoking."

Roy—"Oh, yes, mamma. I said it five times."
Mamma—"You need only have said it once, dear."
Roy—"But I had five pieces of cake, mamma!"—London Punch.

HOUSEHOLD AFFAIRS

DUTCHESS COUNTY CUP CAKE.
Cream one and a half cups of sugar with a half cup of butter, add two yolks of eggs and nearly a cup of milk. Sift in two cups of flour and two teaspoonfuls of baking powder. Add the beaten whites of two eggs and bake in cups or muffin tins. These little cakes are exceedingly delicate.

SPONGE PUDDING.
Although this is not so old a favorite as the brown Betty, it is very good. Mix four tablespoonfuls of cornstarch with a little cold water, then stir it into a pint of boiling water. Add a cup of sugar and the rind and juice of two lemons. Boil one minute, pour while hot over well beaten whites of eggs. Mix thoroughly and pour into a mould. Serve with custard while very cold.

PINEAPPLE JELLY.
For this have on hand a jar of canned pineapple which is not very rich. Preserved pineapple would be too rich. Heat the fruit over the stove, adding water if there is not much juice. When hot, add a tablespoonful of soaked gelatin to every cup (fruit and juice mixed). Place in a round mould or deep bowl and set in a pan of ice, stirring it just before it hardens, to keep the fruit from sinking to the bottom. When hard, serve very cold with cream.

VEAL OMELETTE.
The name of this recipe is something of a misnomer, as it is more like a meat loaf than a genuine omelette. Mince fine three pounds of lean veal; add three eggs. Pound four large crackers, mix them with two tablespoonfuls of milk and knead them into the meat. Season with salt and pepper and a teaspoonful of marjoram or with a bit of onion and thyme. Place the meat in a buttered mould. Baste while baking with a teaspoonful of salt dissolved in water, and mixed with a bit of butter. Bake in a hot oven until quite firm. Cut in slices when ready to serve and serve either hot or cold. This makes a very nice supper dish.

OLDTIME SPONGE CAKE.
This cake is made without baking powder. Like all the old delicate sponge cakes, it depends upon the eggs for lightness, and therefore needs care in its preparation. Take a certain number of eggs. Weigh them. Have on hand their weight in sugar and half their weight in flour. Then separate the yolks and whites. Whip each very light. Add the sugar to the yolks; then fold in the beaten whites carefully. Whip the whole until light. Flavor with lemon rind and juice. Mix the flour in by degrees and do not beat after it is in, but turn the cake into a tin and bake in a rather quick oven over half an hour.

BROWN BETTY.
The very mention of brown Betty brings with it all the flavor of old-fashioned days. The following recipe is one of the best of its kind: Spread the bottom of an earthen pudding dish with a layer of quartered apples dotted with bits of butter and seasoned with nutmeg. Then cover with a layer of bread crumbs soaked in milk. Do not have too much milk, as the tartness of the apples and the sweetness of the milk do not combine well, but the crumbs should be thoroughly moistened to prevent their becoming too dry in baking. Bread freshly grated from a stale loaf is excellent for this purpose. Sprinkle the top with nutmeg, a little sugar and large bits of butter. Bake until the apples are done and the whole a rich brown. Serve with thick sweetened cream, or, better yet, with a hard sauce made with powdered sugar, butter and a wine flavoring. It is good either hot or cold.

THE WOMAN'S CLUB.
The woman's club for a long time past has been a settled institution and the jests which used to be made about such places fifteen or twenty years ago seem almost antediluvian when recalled. Now that the Bishop of London has made a speech in their favor at a luncheon given to him by one of the newest and most popular of the women's clubs, we may take them as a settled part of the constitution. Nor could it very well be otherwise; so many London women are engaged in the same work as men, in medicine, art, literature and business, that they require much the same kind of conveniences that men do. If they had no clubs they would be obliged to take their food and spend much of their time in restaurants and other places of a similar nature.

During the years in which they have been in existence these clubs have vastly improved. Now there is little to distinguish them from similar resorts of men. They have their public and private rooms, reading and even smoking rooms. Their cookery is at least adequate, and a male visitor feels just as much at home within their walls as he would do in his own club. Ingram is quite right to recognize facts as they are, and to acknowledge that the woman's club has an important part to play in the social life of the present.—Country Life.

WOMEN'S SENSES LESS ACUTE.
The man, when his tooth was pulled, yelled hoarsely. The next patient, a woman, bore the pain of three extractions with silent fortitude.
"Yes," said the dentist, "women endure the pangs of tooth pulling better than men, but they deserve no praise on this account. They feel the pain less. Experiments have frequently been made to test the acuteness of the masculine and feminine senses. The last experiments were made in this city, and they were interesting and conclusive."

"First, taste was tried. The male subjects could detect in water the presence of the sixtieth part of a grain of gall. The women couldn't distinguish the gall in a smaller quantity than the twentieth of a grain. The men's taste was three times keener than the women's."
"Next, smell. The men smelt the presence of the hundredth part of a grain of prussic acid. The women were unconscious of the acid till a quantity five times greater was set before them. In smell the men were five times the women's superiors."

Manhattan, Nevada's latest gold mining camp, which is eighty-two miles from Tonopah, now has a newspaper, the Mail.

FOR AND ABOUT WOMEN

FLORAL NOTES.
Plant a few flowers that your neighbor doesn't, and then each can enjoy the other's garden.

By sowing flower seeds in boxes in the house now it is possible to have fine blooming plants early in May. You can have carnations in July by buying your plants in two-inch pots and setting them out in the spring. Was your lawn all that you desired last year? If not, sow some reliable grass seed this year and have a pretty one.

For covering trellises, piazzas, fences and trailing over rockwork, etc., the climbing nasturtiums have a place that is distinctly their own.

OLD TIME ETIQUETTE.

An old manual of etiquette shows that the people of bygone days were not so different from those of the present, for the treatise thinks it necessary to state that one should never ask a friend where she bought her gown and the uttermost farthing of its cost. To this rule, however, an astonishing exception is made. One might ask these things, it seems, if one really wanted to get a gown exactly like the one in question and were therefore asking sincerely for information. Evidently in these days, when sisters thought it smart to dress exactly alike, it was considered a compliment to copy a friend's gown. Another interesting statement of this precious manual is that no lady looks worse than when "gnawing a bone."

KEEP HIM IN LOVE WITH YOU.

Woman affects to believe there is some great mystery about keeping a man in love with her. In reality, it is simplicity itself.

A woman has only to go on as she began.

Every woman knows how she attracted her husband. To continue to win she has only to make the same play over and over again.

If she caught her husband by being a gifted listener, let her lend him her ears more willingly after marriage than before it. No man ever wearied of the society of a woman who hung with bated breath on his utterances and who never failed to laugh at his jokes.

If she attracted her husband by her similarity of taste, let her eat her caviare to the end of the meal without making faces.

If she charmed him by her amiability, let her hold her tongue and refrain from recriminations, no matter what the provocation. If she lured him into matrimony by flattery, let her keep the incense burner ever at work, and the perfume of her praise ever in his nostrils.

Thus shall she outwit other women and outcharm other charmers, and keep her own, for when all is said, the mere fact of a woman being a man's wife gives her the inside track in the race.—Dorothy Dix, in the Indianapolis News.

THE WOMAN'S CLUB.

The woman's club for a long time past has been a settled institution and the jests which used to be made about such places fifteen or twenty years ago seem almost antediluvian when recalled. Now that the Bishop of London has made a speech in their favor at a luncheon given to him by one of the newest and most popular of the women's clubs, we may take them as a settled part of the constitution.

Nor could it very well be otherwise; so many London women are engaged in the same work as men, in medicine, art, literature and business, that they require much the same kind of conveniences that men do. If they had no clubs they would be obliged to take their food and spend much of their time in restaurants and other places of a similar nature.

During the years in which they have been in existence these clubs have vastly improved. Now there is little to distinguish them from similar resorts of men. They have their public and private rooms, reading and even smoking rooms. Their cookery is at least adequate, and a male visitor feels just as much at home within their walls as he would do in his own club. Ingram is quite right to recognize facts as they are, and to acknowledge that the woman's club has an important part to play in the social life of the present.—Country Life.

WOMEN'S SENSES LESS ACUTE.

The man, when his tooth was pulled, yelled hoarsely. The next patient, a woman, bore the pain of three extractions with silent fortitude.
"Yes," said the dentist, "women endure the pangs of tooth pulling better than men, but they deserve no praise on this account. They feel the pain less. Experiments have frequently been made to test the acuteness of the masculine and feminine senses. The last experiments were made in this city, and they were interesting and conclusive."

"Next, smell. The men smelt the presence of the hundredth part of a grain of prussic acid. The women were unconscious of the acid till a quantity five times greater was set before them. In smell the men were five times the women's superiors."

"Men heard a watch ticking at a distance of ten yards; women could only hear it at a distance of two yards. The males again, you see, were five times the better. It was the same thing with sight and with touch. The men saw five times better. The felt five times more keenly and delicately."

"These experiments explain in a way the apparent anomaly of woman's wondrous fortitude to pain. Woman's senses being less acute, she is less affected by pain than man."—New York Press.

REAL AMERICAN WOMAN.

She lives in the small town of the Middle West. Strange to say, the highest praise that I ever heard bestowed on Bird Centre came from a foreigner, a celebrated German architect, who had designed a soldiers' monument for one of our Western capitals, and expressed our patriotic ideals for us in public works in several cities. "When I first went to your country," he said, "I visited only the cities, and there I looked in vain for anything peculiarly American, distinctly democratic, in your social life. I saw only a new version of London, Paris or Berlin, a raw reproduction of the social order of the old world. But when I became acquainted with some of your little towns there I found a phrase of life quite unlike anything we know of in Europe, quite superior to any social organism we have yet developed. There your people seem to believe that men are created free and equal. The same privileges and opportunities were enjoyed by all. Men of all occupations and professions met on the same social footing. I have seen one of your Senators walking along the street in friendly conversation with the man who made his clothes (the architect had no nose for political mice). I have been entertained by ladies who did their own work without suggesting the blue stocking or the new woman. These communities were often centres of culture and education; each shared his best with his fellows; and all seemed united in the bond of mutual improvement."

"An Englishman once gave me his opinion that town life was the most satisfactory mode of living in America. 'There is too much hurry and worry in your cities,' he said, 'too much hard work and too great isolation on your farms. Only the very rich among you can really enjoy either city life or country life. For the man of moderate means the small town offers the greatest advantages.' A distinguished French woman who had been the guest of one of the professors of an Illinois college, wrote in her published expression of America: 'I found a real Utopia, a woman's paradise, a place where living was simple and natural, where no artificial barriers had been erected, where housekeeping was reduced to its simplest terms. My hostess and her three daughters did most of the work of the house; the one who served us gracefully at the table played the piano with more than an amateur's skill; another chatted fluently to me in French while she made my bed; all three were students at the university from which their father and mother had graduated in the same class.'—Public Opinion.

THE NEWEST FASHIONS

Soft silks in pale colors are being made into charming gowns.

When the skirt is a shepherd's check the jacket will sometimes be of broadcloth.

Mousseline de soie and tulle chiffon in shaded effects with flower borders are lovely.

Sometimes the skirt material and the jacket material are entirely different in texture and color.

Empire evening gowns in crepe de chine and chiffon are about the prettiest things seen for some time.

There are plenty of princess skirts to be worn over thin blouses. For the street stylish little jackets are added.

The colors of the new silks and other gown materials are delightful. The coral shades, for example, are exquisite.

Many of the models are delightfully simple. The skirts are wide and full, and in a number of cases are trimmed only with tucks.

Some of the exquisite brocaded and embroidered silks seen in the best shops have been made into very plain blouses to wear under tailored jackets.

One skirt model in mauve with an almost invisible strip of white was pleated over the hips, the pleats stitched flat for five or six inches below the waist.

A style of waist is being made very attractive at one of the small exclusive shops in New York. These waists are called jumpers by their designer, and are distinguished by having no opening except at the top. The fullness of three or four pleats on the shoulders explains the mode of getting into the waist. These pleats button and unbutton, and when open turn the waist into a kind of bag.

THE BOARD OF PHARMACY EXAMINING APPLICANTS

The Indian Territory Board of Pharmacy on Tuesday morning met at Ada in quarterly session to examine applicants for registration as pharmacists. This board was established about two years ago by act of Congress and convenes quarterly in some accessible town in the territory. It will meet in July at Muskogee.

The board is holding its session in the U. S. court room, which was secured through the courteous efforts of the local pharmacists, Messrs. Gwinn and Brents.

There are about twenty-five applicants, which will necessitate the board's remaining here, in all likelihood, two days. The members of the board are:

F. C. Savage of Hartshorn, President.

H. D. Kniesley of Checotah, Secretary.

H. C. Cobb of Muskogee.

H. M. Mitchell of Vinita.

W. O. Strother of Nowata.

CANADIAN SOUTHERN CO. SURVEYING IN TEXAS

Mr. W. B. Jones handed us the clipping printed below, which is from his old home paper, The Sulphur Springs (Texas) Echo. The railroad survey mentioned therein which is perplexing the Texans is undoubtedly part of the big projected Canadian Southern system, for the latter is planned to include both Wills Point and Palestine.

This will be of some interest to Ada people, since it is further evidence that the Canadian Company means business.

The corps of railroad surveyors working from Palestine north have surveyed a route over Arkansas and have located the line as far north as Wills Point, 300 miles east of the Texas-Panhandle line. The survey crew is first class in every respect and is making an easy as far north as Wills Point has been made. The survey has been under way two or three weeks, but no intimation has been given out concerning the owners of the proposed railroad or its objective point north.

ROYAL ARCH MASONS ARE HERE A HUNDRED STRONG

Ada, on this day, April 17th is host to the Grand Chapter of Royal Arch Masons of Oklahoma and Indian Territory. There are in attendance something like one hundred distinguished Masons, prominent citizens withal, of the two territories. The occasion is the 17th annual convocation of that body, which lasts through today and night.

These delegates come from the forty five chapters contained in the twin-territory jurisdiction.

The delegates assembled in the Masonic hall this morning and were formally welcomed to the city in an appropriate address by Mayor Wood, which was responded to most gracefully by E. H. Doyle of South McAlester.

In his annual address to the Grand Chapter, the Grand High Priest, Eugene Hamilton of Chickasha, made the following reference to Ada:

"Ada is our meeting place—the very conception of the new age, the exemplification of the ideal for which that grand old woman, now dead, Susan B. Anthony, labored so long and zealously—Ada, not named after some mere man, or some Indian dead and gone, but named after the new girl still living and breathing faith, affection, hope and encouragement."

Ada and Violet and Maude and Alma and Velma and Hope and Marry Etta—names of our own girls, and also of the vigorous, lively, progressive towns of our Territory, spring into existence in the last year or two."

During the forenoon session the chapter resolved to donate the sum of $1,000 to the Masonic Oklahoma Home for widows and orphans.

On tomorrow will occur the meeting of the Grand Council of Royal and Select Masters and Wednesday that of the Grand Commandery of Knights Templar of Indian Territory. Many other Masons will arrive each day and many of those now present will remain throughout the three days.

The official roster of the Grand Chapter, now in session, is as follows:

M. E. Eugene Hamilton, Chickasha, Grand High Priest; R. E. Wm. Hesse, South McAlester, Deputy High Priest; R. E. D. M. Hailey, South McAlester, Grand King; R. E. Robt Morrison, Atoka, Grand Scribe; R. E. H. L. Jarboe, Jr., Chickasha, treasurer; M. E. J. S. Murrow, Atoka, secretary; M. E. D. D. Leach, Oklahoma City, lecturer; R. E. I. H. G. Hulme, Weatherford, O. T. G. C. of H.; R. E. J. S. Murrow, Grand Chaplain; Excellent Chas. Day, Grand Marshal; Ransom Stephens, G. P. S.; M. A. Nelson, G. R. A. C.; Chris. Springer, G. M. 3d Val; J. H. Angelly, G. M. 2nd Val; H. J. Ricker, 1st Val; Stephen Becker, Grand Sentinel.

NEW CITY COUNCIL HOLDS ITS FIRST REGULAR SESSION

The new city council met Monday night in its first regular session, Mayor Wood and all aldermen being present.

The matter of moving city headquarters to another location was taken up and the mayor was authorized to close a deal for the Kyser building on 12th street, next to Pike's meat market. It will cost $12.50 per month and for a city hall will be superior to the present quarters in several respects. The Kyser building has two stories, giving ample room, is cooler and in a more healthy locality. Later the calaboose will be removed to a closer and more convenient point.

An ordinance was passed creating the office of city scavenger and defining its duties. Since Ada has become a city of the 2nd class instead of a town the office is no longer elective, but is now filled by appointment by the council. This change required the passage of the new ordinance.

There was passed an ordinance which vacates a portion of 6th street for the use of the Frisco railroad in constructing and maintaining a switch to the compress.

A motion was passed authorizing the mayor and recorder formally to accept the proposition of the Frisco relative to constructing the crossing on west Main street, which proposition has been heretofore published in the News.

The selection of a night school was up and proved to be quite a spirited contest. The council took nine ballots before making a choice. That was the first time in all years for, but as the ninth ballot W. C. Bailey received the requisite five votes and was elected.

The council passed an ordinance granting the city recorder, J. I. Warren, a leave of absence to recuperate his health.

Adjournment was had until Tuesday night, when official boards will be taken up for approval, a scavenger will be selected and other matters attended to.

The following standing committees were appointed at the regular session of the city council on April 16, 1906, by Mayor Wood:

Committee on finance, purchase, schools and printing: M. D. Timberlake, R. A. Mason, J. E. Bills.

Committee on water and water works and lights: A. R. Sugg, W. H. Nettles, J. E. Bills, B. A. Mason.

Committee on streets, sidewalks and sanitary: M. D. Timberlake, C. O. Barton, A. J. McFarland, W. C. Lee.

Committee on ordinances: B. C. King, C. O. Barton, W. C. Lee. Committee on Cemetery: W. H. Nettles, A. J. McFarland, A. R. Sugg.

OVERDRAFTS

It is becoming well known to business men that overdrafts, whether large or small, are not approved by the Federal Reserve Bank. The large central banks allow overdrafts only in a very small way, and this, it matters not how small, is not approved by the powers that be. This unbusinesslike habit of overdrafts grows out of advancing on moving products, such as cotton, grain and fat stock on the move. The overdraft system is wrong and the man whose account is always overdrawn is the man who spends more money than he makes and will finally have no bank account.

There are a great many people who either can't or don't care to read. But however unlettered, however young or old people may be they all love to look at pictures. This fact is taken advantage of in all modern literature and advertising. In up-to-date advertising pictures are used copiously wherever practicable.

Now Ada possesses a multitude of charms and opportunities, but the trouble is we have not proclaimed them to the outside world. Ada has been entirely too modest; she has neglected to blow her horn, and as a result some of her bolder sister towns have been the recipients of attentions properly belonging to her. Yes, undeniably what Ada needs now is some vigorous, tactful, tasteful advertising. The News has long since realized this and has persistently agitated the enterprise. As a good, strong starter the News management has arranged to get out an elegant Souvenir Album Edition, which will be a superb birds-eye view of Ada, her people, her business, her opportunities. It will be a thorough and tasteful epitome of the life of Ada and surrounding country. The album is planned with an eye to the invaluable advantages of copious pictures as above indicated.

Not only will this book be excellent advertising literature, but it will be such an elegant souvenir as all our citizens will prize, will wish to preserve copies in their libraries and send others abroad to relatives and friends.

The cost to citizens patronizing this project has been minimized and is easily within the reach of all. Let all lend their patronage and encouragement and have a good word to say for the undertaking.

AS successor to the Ravia Tribune, T. D. Jones has started up The Chickasaw News at the town of McGee. It starts out with a good, strong, town-building flavor and is the sort of a paper the citizens of McGee should lend every support.

Ordinance No. 106.

An ordinance creating the office of scavenger for the City of Ada, Indian Territory, and defining his duties.

Section 1. Be it ordained by the city council of the City of Ada, that the office of Scavenger is hereby created who shall be elected by the city council on the first regular meeting after the general election in each year, and every year thereafter, who shall hold his office for a term of one year, or until his successor is elected and qualified.

Sec. 2. That the City Scavenger may be removed at any time by a majority vote of the city council.

Sec. 3. That it shall be the duty of the City Scavenger to remove from the city limits of the city all garbage and carcasses of dead animals and fowls and other refuse dangerous to the public health that may accumulate upon any public or private premises within said city.

Sec. 4. That it shall be the duty of any owner or occupant of any hotel, restaurant, boarding house, butcher shop or other public place where refuse or filth are liable to accumulate, to deposit all filth, slop, refuse, offal, refuse vegetable, or animal matter, that may accumulate upon or by product of such premises, in metallic barrels with metallic covers and side handles, commonly known as garbage barrels, and shall cause the same to be removed to such place as may be provided or designated by the city council as often as every Monday and Thursday, and of tenor when required to do so by the board of health.

Sec. 5. That the city scavenger shall dump all garbage, and offal and refuse of every character and description at some place beyond the city limits, to be designated by the city council.

Sec. 6. That it shall be unlawful for the city scavenger or any other person to convey, remove or carry any swill or slop, or the contents of any cess pool, or privy vault or any decomposed vegetable or animal matter of whatever nature, or carry along or over any street, avenue or alley or other public ground except between the hours of 10 o'clock p. m. and five o'clock a. m. Provided that nothing in this section herein contained shall be construed to regulate the carrying of dead animals within the city limits to be used for food.

Sec. 7. That it shall be the duty of all persons to remove or cause to be removed, by the city scavenger, the carcasses of all dead animals or fowls, to the city dumping ground, owned by them or found upon their premises, within twenty-four hours from the death of such animal or fowl.

Sec. 8. That the contents of all privies shall be removed by the scavenger in an odorless, air tight tank, and said tank shall be first examined and inspected by the board of public health before being used by the scavenger, and if said tank shall be approved by the board of health, the said board shall issue a certificate of approval, and thereupon the city

Sec. 9. That the scavenger shall clean all private privies as often as once each month, and oftener when requested by the occupant of the premises, where a privy is located, or when directed by the board of health; and all privies used in connection with hotels, restaurants and public buildings, or business buildings, shall be cleaned at least once in each week. It shall be unlawful for any person or persons to allow his privy to be used and not cleaned as herein provided.

Sec. 10. It shall be unlawful for any person to sweep, throw or burn trash, waste paper or refuse upon any street or alley of this city, or any public lot therein, except the lot nearest his business house and then the same shall be burned in wire cages.

Sec. 11. It shall be unlawful for any person to allow any filth or refuse matter to accumulate upon the premises occupied by him, or under his control.

Sec. 12. It shall be required of the city scavenger to furnish at his own expense, lime, to be used and deposited by him in quantities of one quart in all private privies and in quantities of one half gallon in all privies of hotels, restaurants, public or business buildings, as is provided in Sec. 9, at the time the same is cleaned. It shall be the further duty of the said scavenger to clean all alleys in the city of Ada, as often as ordered by the mayor or city council.

Sec. 13. That in no event shall the city be liable for fees for removing any article herein mentioned, or performing any duty herein mentioned by the scavenger, except cleaning of privies at public school houses which shall be paid by the school board.

Sec. 14. That in the event any person shall refuse or fail to pay the fees for the cleaning of the privies as provided herein, or shall refuse to pay the fees for removing any article or substance which it is made unlawful to remain in said city and is made the duty of the scavenger to remove by this ordinance, he shall be deemed to have refused to clean or remove the same, and upon complaint before the mayor, and upon trial he shall be found guilty of violating this ordinance, it shall be the duty of the mayor to tax as cost in said case all fee that may be due the city scavenger.

Sec. 15. Any person who shall be aggrieved by paying any scavenger fee may complain to the city council, and upon hearing his complaint they shall be of the opinion that the same is unjust, the scavenger shall refund the same to the party making the complaint.

Sec. 16. Any person or persons who shall violate any provision of this ordinance shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction before the mayor shall be fined in any sum not more than twenty-five dollars nor less than one dollar.

Sec. 17. The city scavenger shall receive for his services the following fees:
Cows or horse $1.00
Yearling colt, hog or dog .50
Kitts, cats or rats .05
Privies .25
Slop or refuse per barrel .25
Waste paper and other dry refuse per barrel .10

That this ordinance take effect from and after its passage and publication.

TALES OF ADVENTURE

A REVOLUTIONARY HEROINE.

NANCY HART, the famous Georgian character of Revolutionary days, is by no means mythical, but was a very real personage. Notwithstanding her gigantic frame, red hair, freckles and crossed eyes, her memory is kept greener among the people of her native State than that of many a more prepossessing heroine.

She was what is familiarly known as a Georgia "Cracker," a poor, though intelligent white, who lived among the sand hills or in the isolated districts of the State.

Her capture of the ten Tories while they were devouring the vultures she had been compelled to prepare for them is recognized as an historical fact.

During Andrew Jackson's Presidency representatives from Georgia, desiring to bring that State to the notice of the President, decided to present a painting for one of the niches in the rotunda of the United States Capitol building. At length it was completed—a portrait of Nancy Hart, bareheaded, barefooted, her skirts to her knees, crossing a shallow stream driving ten Tories before her at point of one of their own guns. The President, who was redheaded and came of hardy pioneer stock himself, is said to have been very much pleased with the picture, and it is to be hoped that Georgia profited by the diplomacy of her representatives.

The idea that Nancy Hart followed her husband to Florida and died there is erroneous. After the fierce disturbances of the Revolution had gone down as history she buckled up her yoke of oxen and with her children and grandchildren emigrated to South Carolina.

At one of the stops on the route her son-in-law became engaged in a drunken brawl and was taken in custody by an officer. Ever quick to meet an emergency, Nancy went to the rescue. Bestowing a few pugilistic bumps on the detainer of her son-in-law, she seized the latter and lifted him bodily into the bed of the wagon and drove out of town.

Nancy Hart located near Edgefield, a small town not far from the Georgia line. Her fame preceded her there, and she was welcomed and respected by her neighbors. My grandfather's grandfather lived in Edgefield and was one of the early Baptist preachers. The Scotch-Irish were almost universally Presbyterian, but once agitated there was soon a large sprinkling of Baptists and Methodists throughout the South. The ministers were for the most part itinerant, and revivals that rivalled Moody's and Jones' in enthusiasm were held under huge open tabernacles, and men rode on horseback a hundred miles to be in attendance. Tradition says that Nancy Hart was converted at one of these meetings. It would be reasonable to suppose that time and hardships would have touched the red hair with gray and curbed the old dauntless spirit; but she was as strenuous in religion as in politics. There are mystical stories in my mind of a gaunt old woman embracing my dignified ancestor and disarranging his stock and dragging sluggish slingers by their queues and coat tails to the penance seat, but these are traditions repeated from generation to generation, and I would not vouch for their authenticity.

However, I have always understood that Nancy Hart lived to a good old age, died and was buried in the old Edgefield district, now Edgefield County, S. C.—Richmond News-Leader.

WATERSPOUT HITS THIS BARK.

The Nova Scotian bark Robert S. Bessard, in from Charleston in tow of the tug Edward Luckenbach, had the distinction of exploding a waterspout on Christmas morning while she was off Bermuda, bound from Montevideo for this port. The negro cook was the only one who got a good view of the spout, just after it was born, apparently in a black squall to port. He was carrying aft some plum duff for the cabin table when he saw the swirling column of water impending. He did not care about going up even a spout from a squall that matched his complexion.

Before he could estimate the spout's dimensions he found himself all mixed up with plum duff and dishes on the port side of the deckhouse. The bark was hove down to starboard almost on her beam ends.

The skipper had observed the spout for a little time. He said it had more beam than several hogheads. It burst aboard with the roar of an avalanche, a Niagara or any other good, stout elemental roller. The ship's black cat, which had been following the cook, was corkscrewed up several feet into the spout before it gave way. She came down unhurt, but mighty wet and scared, and scooted across the ship like a charcoal streak to the cabin.

While the crew on watch were clinging to things the bark began to shed her top-hammer. All yards and sail on the main-mast above the masthead went by the board. Stays snapped and canvas, torn by the force of the blast and punctured by yards that crashed to the deck, was sent flying to leeward. Relieved of some of her weight aloft the bark righted a bit. But as she had lost all sail she had no steering way and fell into the arms of a heavy sea. An effort to relieve her by cutting away the landyards of the main rigging failed. The mainmast held.

Within an hour after the spout had hit the bark the alert skipper and his men had patched up some of her canvas, rescued from the wreckage hanging over the side. They bent on a foresail, two jibs and two other fore and aft sail, and got the bark on her course again, the wind continuing favorable. The chafing of the broken spars alongside had opened the bark's seams, and all hands had to pump two hours every day to relieve her until she arrived off Charleston, on January 10, sailing 500 miles under jury rig. She was towed into Charleston by the tug Protector. She is here for repairs.—New York Sun.

SHE SCREAMED, BUT HELD ON.

It is such an everyday occurrence here for anglers to catch in a few hours as many as they can tote (pack) that the Herald seldom records their success. But just to show that our tourists are having great piscatorial sport, we give the following report of successes achieved the past week: On Monday Judge Joseph Chamberlain, of Cincinnati, O., made the first catch of the season of Spanish mackerel. These fine fish have scarcely ever come here this early before. Mr. Harry B. Warden, of Boston, landed with hook and line, sixty-five pounds of speckled trout; Major R. B. Allison caught eighty pounds, and Mr. S. L. Bedford, of Midway, Ky., took in 100 pounds of the same fish, all at "one sitting," so to speak. These gentlemen have been regular winter visitors to Punta Gorda, for years, and our climate and attractions are a source of continual delight to them. That is why they continue to come year after year, and they always receive a cordial welcome. Mrs. Charley Bromley, of Cleveland, O., had an exciting piscatorial experience Tuesday morning. She was out in a boat with a party fishing at the old wreck in the bay in front of the town, when she hooked a big shark. She screamed for the men to help her, but the unfeeling things only laughed and told her to hold on, which, of course, she was trying her best to do, though it seemed as if the shark would drag her out of the boat, in spite of all her efforts. One kind gentleman, though, advised her how to manage the beast, and finally, after a prolonged struggle, she succeeded in landing him. It was a pretty big fish—six feet eight inches long, and weighed 190 pounds. But she confesses that she had a great scare, and she has not yet forgiven the men for laughing at her.—Punta Gorda (Fla.) Herald.

WILDCAT JUMPS INTO CAR.

James P. Murphy is a flagman on the Southern Railway. The engine drawing Murphy's train broke down near Linden, Va., a small station near the top of the Blue Ridge Mountain, and the flagman went back to protect the rear end of the train. He carried the regulation red light to display for the guidance of all oncoming trains and this light attracted the attention of a wildcat. As the animal was about to spring at him Murphy drew his revolver and fired as the animal leaped in the air. Murphy then started on a run for his train, followed by the cat, which had evidently been wounded.

The animal, ferocious because of its wound, sprang on the steps of the rear coach as Murphy disappeared inside, and actually entered the car through the door, which Murphy in his haste had failed to close. Immediately there was consternation among the passengers. Several women fainted outright, and the men were too paralyzed by fright to do anything to save the situation.

The cat crouched on the floor of the car, lashing its tail, and evidently making up its mind which one of the passengers to select for attack. In the meantime Murphy had gone through the car, and descending to the ground, hurried around to the other end, thus coming in behind the cat, which was watching the movements of the passengers.

Standing in the doorway Murphy fired two shots at the beast, the second of which penetrated the animal's brain, killing him instantly. It is a magnificent specimen, and Murphy will have it mounted by a Washington taxidermist. A collection was taken up for his benefit by the passengers on the train.—New York World.

A PIONEER INCIDENT.

In the early days of the Western Reserve, when wolves were more numerous than settlements, a man by the name of Gull, living not a thousand miles from Geauga County, had occasion to go to mill, some four miles distant—the only road being a trail through the woods—and not being the fortunate owner of a horse, had to pack his own grist. Returning late in the afternoon he had got within about half a mile of home when, on happening to look back, he saw two wolves, some twenty rods away, following his track. Off went the grist and up a tree he started, calling for help until he made the woods ring. His father and brother, who were working near the house, hearing the cry, each taking a gun hastened to the rescue. As they came up a little rise of ground near the source of all this noise, the sight that met their eyes was one not soon to be forgotten. There the fellow was bareheaded, with arms and legs tight clasped around a tree, sitting flat on the ground and the wolves squatted on their haunches some ten rods away evidently enjoying the sport.—Tamarack, in Forest and Stream.

Seven hundred and twenty-seven miles of babies are born in the United States annually—enough to reach from New York to Boston, three times, with many miles to spare.

HER POOR BOY.

"Why are you weeping, Mrs. Plum-mery?"
"My poor boy!" she sobbed.
"What has happened? Don't—don't tell me that he is dead!"
"No. He has just started away to college. Think what they'll be doing to him by this time next week."—Chicago Record-Herald.

MAKING SURE.

"Look here, young man, will you answer a civil question?"
"Cert."
"Are you office boy of this life insurance company?"
"Dat's what."
"All right. Take this card to the actuary and take it quick. I didn't know but what you might be the eighth vice-president."

DISAPPOINTED.

"Don't you know," said the young man who thinks he has a musical talent, "I sprained my throat the other day playing the cornet."
"Yes," replied his landlady, "and the neighbors sent their sympathy until they heard the truth."
"What truth?"
"They thought you had sprained the cornet."—Chicago News.

CHOICE OF EVILS.

Jack—"So you are engaged to Miss Gotox, I understand."
Tom—"You have said it."
Jack—"Well, I hardly know whether to congratulate you or not. She is very exacting, I hear, and if you marry her you will have to give up smoking."

Roy—"Oh, yes, mamma. I said it five times."
Mamma—"You need only have said it once, dear."
Roy—"But I had five pieces of cake, mamma!"—London Punch.

HOUSEHOLD AFFAIRS

DUTCHESS COUNTY CUP CAKE.

Cream one and a half cups of sugar with a half cup of butter, add two yolks of eggs and nearly a cup of milk. Sift in two cups of flour and two teaspoonsful of baking powder. Add the beaten whites of two eggs and bake in cups or muffin tins. These little cakes are exceedingly delicate.

SPONGE PUDDING.

Although this is not so old a favorite as the brown Betty, it is very good. Mix four tablespoonsful of cornstarch with a little cold water, then stir it into a pint of boiling water. Add a cup of sugar and the rind and juice of two lemons. Boil one minute, pour while hot over well beaten whites of eggs. Mix thoroughly and pour into a mould. Serve with custard while very cold.

PINEAPPLE JELLY.

For this have on hand a jar of canned pineapple which is not very rich. Preserve pineapple would be too rich. Heat the fruit over the stove, adding water if there is not much juice. When hot, add a tablespoonful of soaked gelatin to every cup (fruit and juice mixed). Place in a round mould or deep bowl and set in a pan of ice, stirring it just before it hardens, to keep the fruit from sinking to the bottom. When hard, serve very cold with cream.

VEAL OMELETTE.

The name of this recipe is something of a misnomer, as it is more like a meat loaf than a genuine omelette. Mince fine three pounds of lean veal; add three eggs. Pound four large crackers, mix them with two tablespoonsful of milk and knead them into the meat. Season with salt and pepper and a teaspoonful of marjoram or with a bit of onion and thyme. Place the meat in a buttered mould. Baste while baking with a teaspoonful of salt dissolved in water, and mixed with a bit of butter. Bake in a hot oven until quite firm. Cut in slices when ready to serve and serve either hot or cold. This makes a very nice supper dish.

OLDTIME SPONGE CAKE.

This cake is made without baking powder. Like all the old delicate sponge cakes, it depends upon the eggs for lightness, and therefore needs care in its preparation. Take a certain number of eggs. Weigh them. Have on hand their weight in sugar and half their weight in flour. Then separate the yolks and whites. Whip each very light. Add the sugar to the yolks; then fold in the beaten whites carefully. Whip the whole until light. Flavor with lemon rind and juice. Mix the flour in by degrees and do not beat after it is in, but turn the cake into a tin and bake in a rather quick oven over half an hour.

BROWN BETTY.

The very mention of brown Betty brings with it all the flavor of old-fashioned days. The following recipe is one of the best of its kind: Spread the bottom of an earthen pudding dish with a layer of quartered apples dotted with bits of butter and seasoned with nutmeg. Then cover with a layer of bread crumbs soaked in milk. Do not have too much milk, as the tartness of the apples and the sweetness of the milk do not combine well, but the crumbs should be thoroughly moistened to prevent their becoming too dry in baking. Bread freshly grated from a stale loaf is excellent for this purpose. Sprinkle the top with nutmeg, a little sugar and large bits of butter. Bake until the apples are done and the whole a rich brown. Serve with thick sweetened cream, or, better yet, with a hard sauce made with powdered sugar, butter and a wine flavoring. It is good either hot or cold.

Hints For the Housekeeper

Lemon juice will take out iron rust. Buttermilk will take out mildew stains.

Camphor put in drawers or trunks will keep away mice.

Glass should be rinsed in cold water to give it a brightness.

Old napkins and tablecloths make the very best glass cloths.

Saturate tubs and pails with glycerine and they will not shrink.

Rub hinges with a feather dipped in oil and they will not creak.

Zinc is easily cleaned with hot, soapy water, and polished with kerosene.

Oilcloth and linoleum may be kept bright for years if properly varnished each year with a good varnish.

In making coffee observe that the broader the bottom and the smaller the top of the vessel the better the coffee will be.

To prevent the smoking of a lamp soak the wick in strong vinegar and dry well before you use it. It will then burn clear and bright.

A small fire in a clean grate or hearth will give out more heat than a large fire cumbered with ashes. Ashes absorb a great deal of heat.

Equal parts of ammonia and spirits of turpentine will take paint out of cloth, no matter how dry it may be. Saturate the spot two or three times and then wash in soapuds.

FLORAL NOTES.

Plant a few flowers that your neighbor doesn't, and then each can enjoy the other's garden.
By sowing flower seeds in boxes in the house now it is possible to have fine blooming plants early in May.
You can have carnations in July by buying your plants in two-inch pots and setting them out in the spring.
Was your lawn all that you desired last year? If not, sow some reliable grass seed this year and have a pretty one.

OLD TIME ETIQUETTE.

An old manual of etiquette shows that the people of bygone days were not so different from those of the present, for the treatise thinks it necessary to state that one should never ask a friend where she bought her gown and the uttermost farthing of its cost. To this rule, however, an astonishing exception is made. One might ask these things, it seems, if one really wanted to get a gown exactly like the one in question and were therefore asking sincerely for information. Evidently in these days, when sisters thought it smart to dress exactly alike, it was considered a compliment to copy a friend's gown. Another interesting statement of this precious manual is that no lady looks worse than when "gnawing a bone."

KEEP HIM IN LOVE WITH YOU.

Woman affects to believe there is some great mystery about keeping a man in love with her. In reality, it is simplicity itself.
A woman has only to go on as she began.
Every woman knows how she attracted her husband. To continue to win she has only to make the same play over and over again.
If she caught her husband by being a gifted listener, let her lend him her ears more willingly after marriage than before it. No man ever wearied of the society of a woman who hung with bated breath on his utterances and who never failed to laugh at his jokes.
If she attracted her husband by her similarity of taste, let her eat her ravioli to the end of the meal without making faces.
If she charmed him by her amiability, let her hold her tongue and refrain from recriminations, no matter what the provocation. If she lured him into matrimony by flattery, let her keep the incense burner ever at work, and the perfume of her praise ever in his nostrils.
Thus shall she outwit other women and outcharm other charmers, and keep her own, for when all is said, the mere fact of a woman being a man's wife gives her the inside track in the race.—Dorothy Dix, in the Indianapolis News.

THE WOMAN'S CLUB.

The woman's club for a long time past has been a settled institution and the jests which used to be made about such places fifteen or twenty years ago seem almost antediluvian when recalled. Now that the Bishop of London has made a speech in their favor at a luncheon given to him by one of the newest and most popular of the women's clubs, we may take them as a settled part of the constitution.
Nor could it very well be otherwise; so many London women are engaged in the same work as men, in medicine, art, literature and business, that they require much the same kind of conveniences that men do. If they had no clubs they would be obliged to take their food and spend much of their time in restaurants and other places of a similar nature.

WOMEN'S SENSES LESS ACUTE.

The man, when his tooth was pulled, yelled hoarsely. The next patient, a woman, bore the pain of three extractions with silent fortitude.
"Yes," said the dentist, "women endure the pangs of tooth pulling better than men, but they deserve no praise on this account. They feel the pain less. Experiments have frequently been made to test the acuteness of the masculine and feminine senses. The last experiments were made in this city, and they were interesting and conclusive.
"First, taste was tried. The male subjects could detect in water the presence of the sixtieth part of a grain of gall. The women couldn't distinguish the gall in a smaller quantity than the twentieth of a grain. The men's taste was three times keener than the women's.
"Next, smell. The men smelt the presence of the hundredth part of a grain of prussic acid. The women were unconscious of the acid till a quantity five times greater was set before them. In smell the men were five times the women's superiors.

FOR AND ABOUT WOMEN

REAL AMERICAN WOMAN.

She lives in the small town of the Middle West. Strange to say, the highest praise that I ever heard bestowed on Bird Centre came from a foreigner, a celebrated German architect, who had designed a soldiers' monument for one of our Western capitals, and expressed our patriotic ideals for us in public works in several cities. "When I first went to your country," he said, "I visited only the cities, and there I looked in vain for anything peculiarly American, distinctly democratic, in your social life. I saw only a new version of London, Paris or Berlin, a raw reproduction of the social order of the old world. But when I became acquainted with some of your little towns there I found a phrase of life quite unlike anything we know of in Europe, quite superior to any social organism we have yet developed. There your people seem to believe that men are created free and equal. The same privileges and opportunities were enjoyed by all. Men of all occupations and professions met on the same social footing. I have seen one of your Senators walking along the street in friendly conversation with the man who made his clothes (the architect had no nose for political mice). I have been entertained by ladies who did their own work without suggesting the blue stocking or the new woman. These communities were often centres of culture and education; each shared his best with his fellows; and all seemed united in the bond of mutual improvement.

NEWEST FASHIONS.

Soft silks in pale colors are being made into charming gowns.
When the skirt is a shepherd's check the jacket will sometimes be of broadcloth.
Mousseline de soie and tulle chiffon in shaded effects with flower borders are lovely.
Sometimes the skirt material and the jacket material are entirely different in texture and color.
Empire evening gowns in crepe de chine and chiffon are about the prettiest things seen for some time.
There are plenty of princess skirts to be worn over thin blouses. For the street stylish little jackets are added.
The colors of the new silks and other gown materials are delightful. The coral shades, for example, are exquisite.

THE BOARD OF PHARMACY EXAMINING APPLICANTS

The Indian Territory Board of Pharmacy on Tuesday morning met at Ada in quarterly session to examine applicants for registration as pharmacists. This board was established about two years ago by act of Congress and convenes quarterly in some accessible town in the territory. It will meet in July at Muskogee.

The board is holding its session in the U. S. court room, which was secured through the courteous efforts of the local pharmacists, Messrs. Gwinn and Brants.

There are about twenty-five applicants, which will necessitate the board's remaining here, in all likelihood, two days. The members of the board are:

F. C. Savage of Hartshorn, President.

H. D. Kniesley of Checotah, Secretary.

H. C. Cobb of Muskogee.

H. M. Mitchell of Vinita.

W. O. Strother of Nowata.

CANADIAN SOUTHERN CO. SURVEYING IN TEXAS

Mr. W. B. Jones handed us the clipping printed below, which is from his old home paper, The Sulphur Springs (Texas) Echo. The railroad survey mentioned therein which is perplexing the Texans is undoubtedly part of the big projected Canadian Southern system, for the latter is planned to include both Wills Point and Palestine.

This will be of some interest to Ada people, since it is further evidence that the Canadian Company means business.

"The corps of railroad surveyors working from Palestine north have surveyed a route near Athens and have located the line as far north as Wills Point, 300 miles east of the Texas-Panhandle line. The survey outfit is first class in every respect, and is well equipped."

way as far north as Wills Point has been made. The survey has been under way two or three weeks, but no intimation has been given out concerning the owners of the proposed railroad or its objective point north."

ROYAL ARCH MASONS ARE HERE A HUNDRED STRONG

Ada, on this day, April 17th is host to the Grand Chapter of Royal Arch Masons of Oklahoma and Indian Territory. There are in attendance something like one hundred distinguished Masons, prominent citizens withal, of the two territories. The occasion is the 17th annual convocation of that body, which lasts through today and night.

These delegates come from the forty five chapters contained in the twin-territory jurisdiction.

The delegates assembled in the Masonic hall this morning and were formally welcomed to the city in an appropriate address by Mayor Wood, which was responded to most gracefully by E. H. Doyle of South McAlester.

In his annual address to the Grand Chapter, the Grand High Priest, Eugene Hamilton of Chickasha, made the following reference to Ada:

"Ada is our meeting place—the very conception of the new age, the exemplification of the ideal for which that grand old woman, now dead, Susan B. Anthony, labored so long and zealously—Ada, not named after some mere man, or some Indian dead and gone, but named after the new girl still living and breathing faith, affection, hope and encouragement."

Ada and Violet and Maude and Alma and Velma and Hope and Marry Etta—names of our own

girls, and also of the vigorous, lively, progressive towns of our Territory, spring into existence in the last year or two."

During the forenoon session the chapter resolved to donate the sum of $1,000 to the Masonic Oklahoma Home for widows and orphans.

On tomorrow will occur the meeting of the Grand Council of Royal and Select Masters and Wednesday that of the Grand Commandery of Knights Templar of Indian Territory. Many other Masons will arrive each day and many of those now present will remain throughout the three days.

The official roster of the Grand Chapter, now in session, is as follows:

M. E. Eugene Hamilton, Chickasha, Grand High Priest; R. E. Wm. Hesse, South McAlester, Deputy High Priest; R. E. D. M. Halley, South McAlester, Grand King; R. E. Robt Morrison, Atoka, Grand Scribe; R. E. H. L. Jarboe, Jr., Chickasha, treasurer; M. E. J. S. Murrow, Atoka, secretary; M. E. D. D. Leach, Oklahoma City, lecturer; R. E. I. H. G. Hulme, Weatherford, O. T., G. C. of H.; R. E. J. S. Murrow, Grand Chaplain; Excellent Chas. Day, Grand Marshal; Ransom Stephens, G. P. S.; M. A. Nelson, G. E. A. C.; Chris. Springer, G. M. 3d Val; J. H. Angelly, G. M. 2nd Val; H. J. Rieker, 1st Val; Stephen Becker, Grand Sentinel.

NEW CITY COUNCIL HOLDS ITS FIRST REGULAR SESSION

The new city council met Monday night in its first regular session, Mayor Wood and all aldermen being present.

The matter of moving city headquarters to another location was taken up and the mayor was authorized to close a deal for the Kyser building on 12th street, next to Pike's meat market. It will cost $12.50 per month and for a city hall will be superior to the present quarters in several respects. The Kyser building has two stories, giving ample room, is cooler and in a more healthy locality. Later the calaboose will be removed to a closer and more convenient point.

An ordinance was passed creating the office of city scavenger and defining its duties. Since Ada has become a city of the 2nd class instead of a town the office is no longer elective, but is now filled by appointment by the council. This change required the passage of the new ordinance.

There was passed an ordinance which vacates a portion of 6th street for the use of the Frisco railroad in constructing and maintaining a switch to the company.

A motion was passed authorizing the mayor and recorder formally to accept the proposition of the Frisco relative to constructing the crossing on west Main street, which proposition has been heretofore published in the News.

The selection of a night school came up and proved to be quite a spirited contest. The council took nine ballots before making a choice. There were four candidates in all, and for but one day ninth ballot W. C. Bailey received the requisite five votes and was elected.

The council passed an ordinance granting the city recorder, J. I. Warren, a leave of absence to recuperate his health.

Adjournment was had until Tuesday night, when official boards will be taken up for approval, a scavenger will be selected and other matters attended to.

The following standing committees were appointed at the regular session of the city council on April 16, 1906, by Mayor Wood:

Committee on finance, purchase, schools and printing: M. D. Timberlake, B. A. Mason, J. E. Bills.

Committee on water and water works and lights: A. R. Sugg, W. H. Nettles, J. E. Bills, B. A. Mason.

Committee on streets, sidewalks and sanitary: M. D. Timberlake, C. O. Barton, A. J. McFarland, W. C. Lee.

Committee on ordinances: B. C. King, C. O. Barton, W. C. Lee.

Committee on Cemetery: W. H. Nettles, A. J. McFarland, A. R. Sugg.

OVERDRAFTS

It is becoming well known by business men that overdrafts, whether large or small, are not approved by the Federal Reserve of the currency. The large central banks allow overdrafts only in a very small way, and this, it matters not how small, is not approved by the powers that be. This unbusinesslike habit of overdrafts grew out of advancing on moving products, such as cotton, grain and fat stock on the move. The overdraft system is wrong and the man whose account is always overdrawn is the man who spends more money than he makes and will finally have no bank account.

There are a great many people who either can't or don't care to read. But however unlettered, however young or old people may be they all love to look at pictures. This fact is taken advantage of in all modern literature and advertising. In up-to-date advertising pictures are used copiously wherever practicable.

Now Ada possesses a multitude of charms and opportunities, but the trouble is we have not proclaimed them to the outside world. Ada has been entirely too modest; she has neglected to blow her horn, and as a result some of her bolder sister towns have been the recipients of attentions properly belonging to her. Yes, undeniably what Ada needs now is some vigorous, tactful, tasteful advertising. The News has long since realized this and has persistently agitated the enterprise. As a good, strong starter the News management has arranged to get out an elegant Souvenir Album Edition, which will be a superb birds-eye view of Ada, her people, her business, her opportunities. It will be a thorough and tasteful epitome of the life of Ada and surrounding country. The album is planned with an eye to the invaluable advantages of copious pictures as above indicated.

Not only will this book be excellent advertising literature, but it will be such an elegant souvenir as all our citizens will prize, will wish to preserve copies in their libraries and send others abroad to relatives and friends.

The cost to citizens patronizing this project has been minimized and is easily within the reach of all. Let all lend their patronage and encouragement and have a good word to say for the undertaking.

AS successor to the Ravia Tribune, T. D. Jones has started up The Chickasaw News at the town of McGee. It starts out with a good, strong, town-building flavor and is the sort of a paper the citizens of McGee should lend every support.

Ordinance No. 106.

An ordinance creating the office of scavenger for the City of Ada, Indian Territory, and defining his duties.

Section 1. Be it ordained by the city council of the City of Ada, that the office of Scavenger is hereby created who shall be elected by the city council on the first regular meeting after the general election in each year, and every year thereafter, who shall hold his office for a term of one year, or until his successor is elected and qualified.

Sec. 2. That the City Scavenger may be removed at any time by a majority vote of the city council.

Sec. 3. That it shall be the duty of the City Scavenger to remove from the city limits of the city all garbage and carcasses of dead animals and fowls and other refuse dangerous to the public health that may accumulate upon any public or private premises within said city.

Sec. 4. That it shall be the duty of any owner or occupant of any hotel, restaurant, boarding house, butcher shop or other public place where refuse or filth are liable to accumulate, to deposit all filth, slop, refuse, offal, refuse vegetable, or animal matter, that may accumulate upon or by product of such premises, in metallic barrels with metallic covers and side handles, commonly known as garbage barrels, and shall cause the same to be removed to such place as may be provided or designated by the city council as often as every Monday and Thursday, and of tenor when required to do so by the board of health.

Sec. 5. That the city scavenger shall dump all garbage, and offal and refuse of every character and description at some place beyond the city limits, to be designated by the city council.

Sec. 6. That it shall be unlawful for the city scavenger or any other person to convey, remove or carry any swill or slop, or the contents of any cess pool, or privy vault or any decomposed vegetable or animal matter of whatever nature, or carry along or over any street, avenue or alley or other public ground except between the hours of 10 o'clock p. m. and five o'clock a. m. Provided that nothing in this section herein contained shall be construed to regulate the carrying of dead animals within the city limits to be used for food.

Sec. 7. That it shall be the duty of all persons to remove or cause to be removed, by the city scavenger, the carcasses of all dead animals or fowls, to the city dumping ground, owned by them or found upon their premises, within twenty-four hours from the death of such animal or fowl.

Sec. 8. That the contents of all privies shall be removed by the scavenger in an odorless, air tight tank, and said tank shall be first examined and inspected by the board of public health before being used by the scavenger, and if said tank shall be approved by the board of health, the said board shall issue a certificate of approval, and thereupon the city

Sec. 9. That the scavenger shall clean all private privies as often as once each month, and oftener when requested by the occupant of the premises, where a privy is located, or when directed by the board of health; and all privies used in connection with hotels, restaurants and public buildings, or business buildings, shall be cleaned at least once in each week. It shall be unlawful for any person or persons to allow his privy to be used and not cleaned as herein provided.

Sec. 10. It shall be unlawful for any person to sweep, throw or burn trash, waste paper or refuse upon any street or alley of this city, or any public lot therein, except the lot nearest his business house and then the same shall be burned in wire cages.

Sec. 11. It shall be unlawful for any person to allow any filth or refuse matter to accumulate upon the premises occupied by him, or under his control.

Sec. 12. It shall be required of the city scavenger to furnish at his own expense, lime, to be used and deposited by him in quantities of one quart in all private privies and in quantities of one half gallon in all privies of hotels, restaurants, public or business buildings, as is provided in Sec. 9, at the time the same is cleaned. It shall be the further duty of the said scavenger to clean all alleys in the city of Ada, as often as ordered by the mayor or city council.

Sec. 13. That in no event shall the city be liable for fees for removing any article herein mentioned, or performing any duty herein mentioned by the scavenger, except cleaning of privies at public school houses which shall be paid by the school board.

Sec. 14. That in the event any person shall refuse or fail to pay the fees for the cleaning of the privies as provided herein, or shall refuse to pay the fees for removing any article or substance which it is made unlawful to remain in said city and is made the duty of the scavenger to remove by this ordinance, he shall be deemed to have refused to clean or remove the same, and upon complaint before the mayor, and upon trial he shall be found guilty of violating this ordinance, it shall be the duty of the mayor to tax as cost in said case all fee that may be due the city scavenger.

Sec. 15. Any person who shall be aggrieved by paying any scavenger fee may complain to the city council, and upon hearing his complaint they shall be of the opinion that the same is unjust, the scavenger shall refund the same to the party making the complaint.

Sec. 16. Any person or persons who shall violate any provision of this ordinance shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction before the mayor shall be fined in any sum not more than twenty-five dollars nor less than one dollar.

Sec. 17. The city scavenger shall receive for his services the following fees:

Cow or horse $1.00
Yearling colt, hog or dog .50
Fowls, cats or rats .05
Privies .25
Slop or refuse per barrel .25
Waste paper and other dry refuse per barrel .10

That this ordinance take effect from and after its passage and publication.

TALES OF ADVENTURE

A REVOLUTIONARY HEROINE.

NANCY HART, the famous Georgia character of Revolutionary days, is by no means mythical, but was a very real personage. Notwithstanding her gigantic frame, red hair, freckles and crossed eyes, her memory is kept green among the people of her native State than that of many a more prepossessing heroine.

She was what is familiarly known as a Georgia "Cracker," a poor, though intelligent white, who lived among the sand hills or in the isolated districts of the State.

Her capture of the ten Tories while they were devouring the vultures she had been compelled to prepare for them is recognized as an historical fact.

During Andrew Jackson's Presidency representatives from Georgia, desiring to bring that State to the notice of the President, decided to present a painting for one of the niches in the rotunda of the United States Capitol building. At length it was completed—a portrait of Nancy Hart, bareheaded, barefooted, her skirts to her knees, crossing a shallow stream driving ten Tories before her at point of one of their own guns. The President, who was redheaded and came of hardy pioneer stock himself, is said to have been very much pleased with the picture, and it is to be hoped that Georgia profited by the diplomacy of her representatives.

The idea that Nancy Hart followed her husband to Florida and died there is erroneous. After the fierce disturbances of the Revolution had gone down as history she buckled up her yoke of oxen and with her children and grandchildren emigrated to South Carolina.

At one of the stops on the route her son-in-law became engaged in a drunken brawl and was taken in custody by an officer. Ever quick to meet an emergency, Nancy went to the rescue. Bestowing a few pugilistic bumps on the detainer of her son-in-law, she seized the latter and lifted him bodily into the bed of the wagon and drove out of town.

Nancy Hart located near Edgfield, a small town not far from the Georgia line. Her fame preceded her there, and she was welcomed and respected by her neighbors. My grandfather's grandfather lived in Edgfield and was one of the early Baptist preachers. The Scotch-Irish were almost universally Presbyterian, but once agitated there was soon a large sprinkling of Baptists and Methodists throughout the South. The ministers were for the most part itinerant, and revivals that rivalled Moody's and Jones' in enthusiasm were held under huge open tabernacles, and men rode on horseback a hundred miles to be in attendance.

Tradition says that Nancy Hart was converted at one of these meetings. It would be reasonable to suppose that time and hardships would have touched the red hair with gray and curved the old dauntless spirit; but she was as strenuous in religion as in politics. There are mystical stories in my mind of a gaunt old woman embracing my grandfather and disarranging his stock and dragging sluggard sinners by their queues and coat tails to the penance seat, but these are traditions repeated from generation to generation, and I would not vouch for their authenticity.

However, I have always understood that Nancy Hart lived to a good old age, died and was buried in the old Edgfield district, now Edgfield County, S. C.—Richmond News-Leader.

WATERSPOUT HITS THIS BARK
The Nova Scotia bark Robert S. Bessard, in from Charleston in tow of the tug Edward Luckenbach, had the distinction of exploding a waterspout on Christmas morning while she was off Bermuda, bound from Montevideo for this port. The negro cook was the only one who got a good view of the spout, just after it was born, apparently in a black squall to port. He was carrying aft some plum duff for the cabin table when he saw the swirling column of water impending. He did not care about going up even a spout from a squall that matched his complexion.

Before he could estimate the spout's dimensions he found himself all mixed up with plum duff and dishes on the port side of the deckhouse. The bark was hove down to starboard almost on her beam ends.

and fell off into the sea. An effort to relieve her by cutting away the landyards of the main rigging failed. The mainmast held. Within an hour after the spout had hit the bark the alert skipper and his men had patched up some of her canvas, rescued from the wreckage hanging over the side. They bent on a foresail, two jibs and two other fore and aft sail, and got the bark on her course again, the wind continuing favorable. The chafing of the broken spars alongside had opened the bark's seams, and all hands had to pump two hours every day to relieve her until she arrived off Charleston, on January 10, sailing 500 miles under jury rig. She was towed into Charleston by the tug Protector. She is here for repairs.—New York Sun.

SHE SCREAMED, BUT HELD ON.
It is such an everyday occurrence here for anglers to catch in a few hours as many as they can tote (pack) that the Herald seldom records their success. But just to show that our tourists are having great piscatorial sport, we give the following report of successes achieved the past week: On Monday Judge Joseph Chamberlain, of Cincinnati, O., made the first catch of the season of Spanish mackerel. These fine fish have scarcely ever come here this early before. Mr. Harry B. Warden, of Boston, landed with hook and line, sixty-five pounds of speckled trout; Major R. B. Allison caught eighty pounds, and Mr. Sid Bedford, of Midway, Ky., took in 100 pounds of the same fish, all at "one sitting," so to speak. These gentlemen have been regular winter visitors to Punta Gorda, for years, and our climate and attractions are a source of continual delight to them. That is why they continue to come year after year, and they always receive a cordial welcome. Mrs. Charley Bromley, of Cleveland, O., had an exciting piscatorial experience Tuesday morning. She was out in a boat with a party fishing at the old wreck in the bay in front of the town, when she hooked a big shark. She screamed for the men to help her, but the unfeeling things only laughed and told her to hold on, which, of course, she was trying her best to do, though it seemed as if the shark would drag her out of the boat, in spite of all her efforts. One kind gentleman, though, advised her how to manage the beast, and finally, after a prolonged struggle, she succeeded in landing him. It was a pretty big fish—six feet eight inches long, and weighed 190 pounds. But she confesses that she had a great scare, and she has not yet forgiven the men for laughing at her.—Punta Gorda (Fla.) Herald.

WILDCAT JUMPS INTO CAR.
James P. Murphy is a flagman on the Southern Railway. The engine drawing Murphy's train broke down near Linden, Va., a small station near the top of the Blue Ridge Mountain, and the flagman went back to protect the rear end of the train. He carried the regulation red light to display for the guidance of all oncoming trains and this light attracted the attention of a wildcat. As the animal was about to spring at him Murphy drew his revolver and fired as the animal leaped in the air. Murphy then started on a run for his train, followed by the cat, which had evidently been wounded. The animal, ferocious because of its wound, sprang on the steps of the rear coach as Murphy disappeared inside, and actually entered the car through the door, which Murphy in his haste had failed to close. Immediately there was consternation among the passengers. Several women fainted outright, and the men were too paralyzed by fright to do anything to save the situation.

The cat crouched on the floor of the car, lashing its tail, and evidently making up its mind which one of the passengers to select for attack. In the meantime Murphy had gone through the car, and descending to the ground, hurried around to the other end, thus coming in behind the cat, which was watching the movements of the passengers.

Standing in the doorway Murphy fired two shots at the beast, the second of which penetrated the animal's brain, killing him instantly. It is a magnificent specimen, and Murphy will have it mounted by a Washington taxidermist. A collection was taken up for his benefit by the passengers on the train.—New York World.

A PIONEER INCIDENT.
In the early days of the Western Reserve, when wolves were more numerous than settlements, a man by the name of Guild, living not a thousand miles from Georgia County, had occasion to go to mill, some four miles distant—the only road being a trail through the woods—and not being the fortunate owner of a horse, had to pack his own rig. Returning late in the afternoon he had got within about half a mile of home when, on happening to look back, he saw two wolves, some twenty rods away, following his track. Off went the grist and up a tree he started, calling for help until he made the woods ring. His father and brother, who were working near the house, hearing the cry, each taking a gun hastened to the rescue. As they came up a little rise of ground near the source of all this noise, the sight that met their eyes was one not soon to be forgotten. There the fellow was bareheaded, with arms and legs tight clasped around a tree, sitting flat on the ground and the wolves squatted on their haunches some ten rods away evidently enjoying the sport.—Tamarack, in Forest and Stream.

Seven hundred and twenty-seven miles of babies are born in the United States annually—enough to reach from New York to Boston, three times, with many miles to spare.

THE PROVERB AS AMENDED.
"Never put off till to-morrow," said Arluk, "the bill collector whom you can put off till next week."—Chicago Tribune.

THE COLLEGE PATTERN.
"Oh, say, did you see that man steal up behind the quarterback and hit him in the neck with a brick?"
"Yes, I saw him. He's our coach. Ain't he splendid?"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

SUITED FOR EITHER.
"My son doesn't know enough to get a job at anything."
"Start him in some business, then."
"Which do you think would be the better, an intelligence office or a correspondence school?"

CHILDISH YEARNINGS.
"My little boy," said the lady from Maine, "is just crazy to go West and shoot Indians."
"And mine," said the lady from Montana, "is wild to go East and shoot Senators."

THE WILY HUSBAND.
"Yes, whenever I can I bring to my wife the freshest bank bills that the banks can deal out."
"What's that for?"
"Why, the money is so pretty that she hates to spend it."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

THE PESTIFEROUS KIDS.
"How did you stop the kids in your neighborhood from shooting beans at your window?" said Brown.
"I stopped blowing them up," said Town. "When they found it didn't bother me any it seemed to spoil the fun."—Detroit Free Press.

DIPLOMATICALLY.
"I am afraid you are absolutely governed by your wife."
"No," answered Mr. Meekton, who had been reading the foreign news. "I'm not absolutely governed by her. But I must admit that I am very much within her sphere of influence."—Washington Star.

IN THE MIDST OF IT.
"Yes," said the young writer, "I've got pretty deep into my new novel now."
"Ah!" remarked the friend, "the plot's thickening, eh?"
"Yes, perhaps that's it; a any rate, I'm stuck."—Catholic Standard and Times.

IN PROPER ORDER.
The clergyman was marrying a state-ly and imposing widow, Mrs. Strongmynd, to the dapper little Percy Lightwaye.
But he did not lose his presence of mind.
"I pronounce you wife and husband," he said.—Chicago Tribune.

HER POOR BOY.
"Why are you weeping, Mrs. Flummery?"
"My poor boy!" she sobbed.
"What has happened? Don't—don't tell me that he is dead!"
"No. He has just started away to college. Think what they'll be doing to him by this time next week."—Chicago Record-Herald.

MAKING SURE.
"Look here, young man, will you answer a civil question?"
"Cert."
"Are you office boy of this life insurance company?"
"Dat's what."
"All right. Take this card to the actuary and take it quick. I didn't know but what you might be the eighth vice-president."

DISAPPOINTED.
"Don't you know," said the young man who thinks he has a musical talent, "I sprained my throat the other day playing the cornet."
"Yes," replied his landlady, "and the neighbors sent their sympathy until they heard the truth."
"What truth?"
"They thought you had sprained the cornet."—Chicago News.

CHOICE OF EVILS.
Jack—"So you are engaged to Miss Gotox, I understand."
Tom—"You have said it."
Jack—"Well, I hardly know whether to congratulate you or not. She is very exacting, I hear, and if you marry her you will have to give up smoking."
Tom—"Oh, well, it might be worse. If I don't marry her I'll probably have to give up eating."—Chicago News.

VERY MANY THANKS.
Roy (who has been out to tea)—"Mrs. Freeman's cake is better than ours, mamma."
Mamma—"I hope you said 'Thank you' nicely."
Roy—"Oh, yes, mamma. I said it five times."
Mamma—"You need only have said it once, dear."
Roy—"But I had five pieces of cake, mamma!"—London Punch.

HOUSEHOLD AFFAIRS

DUTCHESS COUNTY CUP CAKE.
Cream one and a half cups of sugar with a half cup of butter, add two yolks of eggs and nearly a cup of milk. Sift in two cups of flour and two teaspoonfuls of baking powder. Add the beaten whites of two eggs and bake in cups or muffin tins. These little cakes are exceedingly delicate.

SPONGE PUDDING.
Although this is not so old a favorite as the brown Betty, it is very good. Mix four tablespoonfuls of cornstarch with a little cold water, then stir it into a pint of boiling water. Add a cup of sugar and the rind and juice of two lemons. Boil one minute, pour while hot over well beaten whites of eggs. Mix thoroughly and pour into a mould. Serve with custard while very cold.

PINEAPPLE JELLY.
For this have on hand a jar of canned pineapple which is not very rich. Preserved pineapple would be too rich. Heat the fruit over the stove, adding water if there is not much juice. When hot, add a tablespoonful of soaked gelatine to every cup (fruit and juice mixed). Place in a round mould or deep bowl and set in a pan of ice, stirring it just before it hardens, to keep the fruit from sinking to the bottom. When hard, serve very cold with cream.

VEAL OMELETTE.
The name of this recipe is something of a misnomer, as it is more like a meat loaf than a genuine omelette. Mince fine three pounds of lean veal; add three eggs. Pound four large crackers, mix them with two tablespoonfuls of milk and knead them into the meat. Season with salt and pepper and a teaspoonful of marjoram or with a bit of onion and thyme. Place the meat in a buttered mould. Baste while baking with a teaspoonful of salt dissolved in water, and mixed with a bit of butter. Bake in a hot oven until quite firm. Cut in slices when ready to serve and serve either hot or cold. This makes a very nice supper dish.

OLDTIME SPONGE CAKE.
This cake is made without baking powder. Like all the old delicate sponge cakes, it depends upon the eggs for lightness, and therefore needs care in its preparation. Take a certain number of eggs. Weigh them. Have on hand their weight in sugar and half their weight in flour. Then separate the yolks and whites. Whip each very light. Add the sugar to the yolks; then fold in the beaten whites carefully. Whip with lemon rind and juice. Mix the flour in by degrees and do not beat after it is in, but turn the cake into a tin and bake in a rather quick oven over half an hour.

BROWN BETTY.
The very mention of brown Betty brings with it all the flavor of old-fashioned days. The following recipe is one of the best of its kind. Spread the bottom of an earthen pudding dish with a layer of quartered apples dotted with bits of butter and seasoned with nutmeg. Then cover with a layer of bread crumbs soaked in milk. Do not have too much milk, as the tartness of the apples and the sweetness of the milk do not combine well, but the crumbs should be thoroughly moistened to prevent their becoming too dry in baking. Break freshly grated nutmeg on a stale loaf is excellent for this purpose. Sprinkle the top with nutmeg, a little sugar and large bits of butter. Bake until the apples are done and the whole a rich brown. Serve with thick sweetened cream or, better yet, with a hard sauce made with powdered sugar, butter and a wine flavoring. It is good either hot or cold.

Hints For the Housekeeper

Lemon juice will take out iron rust. Buttermilk will take out mildew stains. Camphor put in drawers or trunks will keep away mice. Glass should be rinsed in cold water to give it a brightness. Old napkins and tablecloths make the very best glass cloths. Saturate tubs and pails with glycerine and they will not shrink. Rub kinges with a feather dipped in oil and they will not crack. Zinc is easily cleaned with hot, soapy water, and polished with kerosene. Oilcloth and linoleum may be kept bright for years if properly varnished each year with a good varnish. In making coffee observe that the broader the bottom and the smaller the top of the vessel the better the coffee will be. To prevent the smoking of a lamp soak the wick in strong vinegar and dry well before you use it. It will then burn clear and bright. A small fire in a clean grate or hearth will give out more heat than a large fire cumbered with ashes. Ashes absorb a great deal of heat. Equal parts of ammonia and spirits of turpentine will take paint out of cloth, no matter how dry it may be. Saturate the spot two or three times and then wash in soapuds.

FOR AND ABOUT WOMEN

FLORAL NOTES.
Plant a few flowers that your neighbor doesn't, and then each can enjoy the other's garden.
By sowing flower seeds in boxes in the house now it is possible to have fine blooming plants early in May.
You can have carnations in July by buying your plants in two-inch pots and setting them out in the spring.
Was your lawn all that you desired last year? If not, sow some reliable grass seed this year and have a pretty one.

For covering trellises, piazzas, fences and trailing over rockwork, etc., the climbing nasturtiums have a place that is distinctly their own.

OLD TIME ETIQUETTE.
An old manual of etiquette shows that the people of bygone days were not so different from those of the present, for the treatise thinks it necessary to state that one should never ask a friend where she bought her gown and the uttermost farthing of its cost. To this rule, however, an astonishing exception is made. One might ask these things, it seems, if one really wanted to get a gown exactly like the one in question and were therefore asking sincerely for information. Evidently in these days, when sisters thought it smart to dress exactly alike, it was considered a compliment to copy a friend's gown. Another interesting statement of this precious manual is that no lady looks worse than when "gnawing a bone."

KEEP HIM IN LOVE WITH YOU.
Woman affects to believe there is some great mystery about keeping a man in love with her. In reality, it is simplicity itself.
A woman has only to go on as she began.

Every woman knows how she attracted her husband. To continue to win she has only to make the same play over and over again.
If she caught her husband by being a gifted listener, let her lend him her ears more willingly after marriage than before it. No man ever wearied of the society of a woman who hung with bated breath on his utterances and who never failed to laugh at his jokes.

If she attracted her husband by her similarity of taste, let her eat her cavare to the end of the meal without making faces.
If she charmed him by her amiability, let her hold her tongue and refrain from recriminations, no matter what the provocation. If she lured him into matrimony by flattery, let her keep the incense burner ever at work, and the perfume of her praise ever in his nostrils.

Thus shall she outwit other women and outcharm other charmers, and keep her own, for when all is said, the mere fact of a woman being a man's wife gives her the inside track in the race.—Dorothy Dix, in the Indianapolis News.

THE WOMAN'S CLUB.
The woman's club for a long time past has been a settled institution and the jests which used to be made about such places fifteen or twenty years ago seem almost antediluvian when recalled. Now that the Bishop of London has made a speech in their favor at a luncheon given to him by one of the newest and most popular of the women's clubs, we may take them as a settled part of the constitution.

Nor could it very well be otherwise; so many London women are engaged in the same work as men, in medicine, art, literature and business, that they require much the same kind of conveniences that men do. If they had no clubs they would be obliged to take their food and spend much of their time in restaurants and other places of a similar nature.
During the years in which they have been in existence these clubs have vastly improved. Now there is little to distinguish them from similar resorts of men. They have their public and private rooms, reading and even smoking rooms. Their cookery is at least adequate, and a male visitor feels just as much at home within their walls as he would do in his own club. Ingram is quite right to recognize facts as they are, and to acknowledge that the woman's club has an important part to play in the social life of the present.—Country Life.

WOMEN'S SENSES LESS ACUTE.
The man, when his tooth was pulled, yelled hoarsely. The next patient, a woman, bore the pain of three extractions with silent fortitude.
"Yes," said the dentist, "women endure the pangs of tooth pulling better than men, but they deserve no praise on this account. They feel the pain less. Experiments have frequently been made to test the acuteness of the masculine and feminine senses. The last experiments were made in this city, and they were interesting and conclusive.
"First, taste was tried. The male subjects could detect in water the presence of the sixtieth part of a grain of gall. The women couldn't distinguish the gall in a smaller quantity than the twentieth of a grain. The men's taste was three times keener than the women's.
"Next, smell. The men smelt the presence of the hundredth part of a grain of prussic acid. The women were unconscious of the acid till a quantity five times greater was set before them. In smell the men were five times the women's superiors."

Manhattan, Nevada's latest gold mining camp, which is eighty-two miles from Tonopah, now has a newspaper, the Mail.

"Men heard a watch ticking at a distance of ten yards; women could only hear it at a distance of two yards. The males again, you see, were five times the better. It was the same thing with sight and with touch. The men saw five times better. The felt five times more keenly and delicately.
"These experiments explain in a way the apparent anomaly of woman's wondrous fortitude to pain. Woman's senses being less acute, she is less affected by pain than man."—New York Press.

REAL AMERICAN WOMAN.
She lives in the small town of the Middle West. Strange to say, the highest praise that I ever heard bestowed on Bird Centre came from a foreigner, a celebrated German architect, who had designed a soldiers' monument for one of our Western capitals, and expressed our patriotic ideals for us in public works in several cities. "When I first went to your country," he said, "I visited only the cities, and there I looked in vain for anything peculiarly American, distinctly democratic, in your social life. I saw only a new version of London, Paris or Berlin, a raw reproduction of the social order of the old world. But when I became acquainted with some of your little towns there I found a phrase of life quite unlike anything we know of in Europe, quite superior to any social organism we have yet developed. There your people seem to believe that men are created free and equal. The same privileges and opportunities were enjoyed by all. Men of all occupations and professions met on the same social footing. I have seen one of your Senators walking along the street in friendly conversation with the man who made his clothes (the architect had no nose for political mice). I have been entertained by ladies who did their own work without suggesting the blue stocking or the new woman. These communities were often centres of culture and education; each shared his best with his fellows; and all seemed united in the bond of mutual improvement.
"An Englishman once gave me his opinion that town life was the most satisfactory mode of living in America. 'There is too much hurry and worry in your cities,' he said, 'too much hard work and too great isolation on your farms. Only the very rich among you can really enjoy either city life or country life. For the man of moderate means the small town offers the greatest advantages.' A distinguished French woman who had been the guest of one of the professors of an Illinois college, wrote in her published expression of America: 'I found a real Utopia, a woman's paradise, a place where living was simple and natural, where no artificial barriers had been erected, where housekeeping was reduced to its simplest terms. My hostess and her three daughters did most of the work of the house; the one who served us gracefully at the table played the piano with more than an amateur's skill; another chatted fluently to me in French while she made my bed; all three were students at the university from which their father and mother had graduated in the same class.'—Public Opinion.

Soft silks in pale colors are being made into charming gowns.
When the skirt is a shepherd's check the jacket will sometimes be of broadcloth.
Mousseline de soie and tulle chiffon in shaded effects with flower borders are lovely.
Sometimes the skirt material and the jacket material are entirely different in texture and color.
Empire evening gowns in crepe de chine and chiffon are about the prettiest things seen for some time.
There are plenty of princess skirts to be worn over thin blouses. For the street stylish little jackets are added.
The colors of the new silks and other gown materials are delightful. The coral shades, for example, are exquisite.
Many of the models are delightfully simple. The skirts are wide and full, and in a number of cases are trimmed only with tucks.
Some of the exquisite brocaded and embroidered silks seen in the best shops have been made into very plain blouses to wear under tailored jackets.
One skirt model in mauve with an almost invisible strip of white was pleated over the hips, the pleats attached flat for five or six inches below the waist.
A style of waist is being made very attractive at one of the small exclusive shops in New York. These waists are called jumpers by their designer, and are distinguished by having no opening except at the top. The fullness of three or four pleats on the shoulders explains the mode of getting into the waist. These pleats button and unbutton, and when open turn the waist into a kind of bag.

Manhattan, Nevada's latest gold mining camp, which is eighty-two miles from Tonopah, now has a newspaper, the Mail.
